The passing of Labor Day means students are ensconced in their Fall classes and Matt Wells, '96, is hollering about attitude and effort on the gridiron.

It also means new arrivals, and this Fall, we welcome 23 new faculty and staff to our Huntsman community. These outstanding men and women come to us from near and far, and I am convinced that they will add much to our purpose of being a career accelerator for our students.

Our video this month features one such student, Jameson Olsen. Jameson took full advantage of his time at the Huntsman School, and he attributes the sum of that experience to launching his career in New York City.
